

Escape to the Sierra Blanca Mountains

Ruidoso and Alamogordo

July 16 - 19, 2025
(4 days - 3 nights)

Wed, July 16

Ruidoso, NM

Anticipating the mild days and cool nights of Ruidoso we board our motorcoach, meet our fellow travelers and route toward the “Land of Enchantment”. The mountain resort town of Ruidoso lies in the rugged Sierra Blanca mountain range where it merges with the Sacramento Mountains to the south. Ruidoso has been experiencing explosive growth and currently, is the 4th fastest growing city in New Mexico, after Albuquerque, Rio Rancho and Las Cruces. Upon arriving in Ruidoso, we will check in at our hotel, our home for 3 nights. This evening we will go to the nearby Flying J Ranch for a Chuckwagon Supper and Western Show. Our supper will consist of brisket, bbq chicken, beans, biscuits, dessert and tea, coffee or lemonade. For over 30 years the Wranglers have been taking audiences back to the Old West with fantastic fiddling, banjo plunking, guitar picking, world-champion yodeling and amazing harmonizing as they sing western ballads telling stories about the great American cowboys of old. Having been in operation since 1982, the Flying J is known for great food and excellent family entertainment.

Today we are ready for a full day of excitement starting with a visit to the Spencer Theatre. Opened in 1997, the theatre houses the largest private collection in the Southwest of Dale Chihuly, Seattle based artist. Chihuly's variegated glass sculptures, blazing with color and squirming with life, are considered the foremost glass art in the world. His amazing hand-blown creations are the only fine art to adorn the monumental Spencer Theater and his Glowing Sunset Tower is a 14-foot glass tower of squiggling bows of red and orange. The 564-piece sculpture dominates the theater's Crystal Lobby. Lunch awaits us at the Ruidoso Downs before the horse racing begins. Ruidoso Downs hosts both Thoroughbred and Quarter Horse racing, notably the All American Futurity, the richest race in Quarter Horse racing. It also hosts the Grade 1 All American Derby in early September, which carries a purse of $1,900,000 and was won in 2023 by Missouri-bred gelding, Whiskey Creek. This evening you will have free time for dinner on your own and perhaps try your luck at Inn of the Mountain Gods Casino. The premier resort and casino is located near Ruidoso, in Mescalero, and is owned by the Mescalero Apache Tribe.
